Elementary Students to Celebrate Political Season

Tucson, AZ - Two Elementary Schools in the Amphi District are set to hold performances appropriate for the season on Monday, November 3rd (That is the political season rather than the holiday season). Painted Sky and Rio Vista Elementary Schools third grade students will be portraying a series of patriotic inspired vignettes at their respective schools. Performances will include patriotic, songs, monologues and dances.

The schools have invited current and previous elected officials as well as, veterans, district administration, friends, family and community members to enjoy the free performance. The events are slated to begin at 2:00 PM at Painted Sky as well as 7:00 PM at both schools.

“We are very excited to see what our students have come up with for Monday evening’s performance. Preparation for this has been not only a way for our students learn about the history of our country, but to, in turn, express their own patriotism,” said Diana Kuhn, Principal, Rio Vista Elementary School.

“Mondays performances should serve as a wonderful experience for both our community as well as our students,” said Angela Wichers, Principal, Painted Sky Elementary. “The students are very excited to showcase all that they have learned these past weeks.”

Painted Sky and Rio Vista are two of 11 elementary schools in the Amphitheater Public School District. The Amphi District covers approximately 110 square miles of Northwest Tucson and Oro Valley and is responsible for educating nearly 16,000 of the areas young minds.
